SEVENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME [A]

February 19th 2017 – Parish Mass Book page 139

Brothers and sisters we have heard about the "Lex Taliones" of the olden times which is equivalent to say "law of such". This means that the damage done requires only an equivalent damage as payment. It also tells us that one can inflict unlimited vengeance to someone whom he thinks has done him or the others wrong and he is justified for so doing! I wonder if the law goes beyond Christian mercy!

In the sermon on the mount, Jesus is telling his disciples to go beyond this law because this is not according to his teachings. He reiterates that instead of telling them that in order to counteract one's enemy, he must do him GOOD. He is actually setting a new way of life to follow. In fact, Jesus himself was offering his very own life for his enemy to gain them back to the Father. He forgave all those who persecuted him and even prayed to his Father to forgive them, his killers, for "they know not what they do" (Lk 23:34).

In the society in which we live today, Jesus' words are not easy to apply, especially if we know that we are at the side of truth. Our usual tendency is really to retaliate with all our might just to win and get vindicated. Yet, Jesus' philosophy on this matter is totally different. For him LOVE is the answer! The best move is to conquer the heart of the enemy so that they will cease to be our enemy. If you want to, eliminate your enemies before you befriend them!

To apply the "eye for an eye" or the "tooth for a tooth", i.e., the "rex taliones" we will become soon a society of blind or toothless people. To end this simple reflection of mine allow me to remind ourselves that Jesus is telling as now to break out from this vicious circle and live a life according to his example. To LOVE always beyond violence and destruction is our way, the Christian way, by becoming the image and likeness of the Father in him and not of our enemies. In this way we can live in peace with everybody and everyone all the days of our lives. Amen.
